

St. Louis style Pizza

Wednesday, February 14, 2024 14:39

FOR THE DOUGH (makes 2 pizzas / i rec using measurements in grams rather than volumetric)

- 225g or 1.5c ap flour
- 3g or 1/2 teas salt
- 5g or 1 teas baking powder
- 35g or 2.5 tbsp olive oil
- 120g or 1/2 c warm water

Into the bowl of a food processor measure flour, salt, baking powder, and olive oil. Blend on high, then stream in water, continuing to blend for about 15-20 seconds until the dough begins to form a ball. Flip the dough out onto a flat surface, pushing and rolling the dough to build strength for at least two minutes. Form the dough into a ball and divide into 2 roughly 185g pieces. Fold each piece of dough over itself multiple times to create a closed seam on the bottom and press down (see video for reference). Transfer dough balls to a plate or baking sheet, covered, to rest at room temp for 20-30 min until you're ready to roll them out.

FOR THE SAUCE: (recipe is enough for 4 pizzas - i usually freeze half for next time)

- 1 28oz can tomato puree
- 60g or 3.5 tbsp tomato paste
- 12g or 1tbsp sugar
- 10g or 1 3/4 tsp salt
- 1g or 1/2 tsp garlic powder
- 1g or 1/2 tsp onion powder
- 1g or 1 tsp dried oregano
- 1g or 1tsp dried basil
- 1g or 1tsp chili/red pepper flakes

Add the following to a high-sided container and blend with an immersion blender (or blend in a conventional blender) until combined and smooth: tomato puree, tomato paste, sugar, salt, garlic powder, onion powder, dried herbs, and chili flakes.

TOPPINGS:

- PROVEL - OR- 75g (or about 1/4c) each of swiss, mild white cheddar, provolone, and full fat mozzarella (shredded on the largest holes of a box grater)

•ITALIAN SAUSAGE

In a bowl mix together:

- 1lb fatty ground pork
- 7g (or 1 1/4 tsp) salt
- 5g (or 1 1/4 tsp) sugar
- 5g (or 2tsp) paprika
- 1g (or 1tsp) dried sage
- 2g (or 1tsp) black ground pepper
- 5g (or 1tsp) red wine vinegar
- 2g (or 2tsp) chili flake
- 2g (or 2tsp) crushed fennel seed
- 1 garlic clove, minced

•BACON

1lb thick cut bacon, placed on a wire rack on a sheet tray, and bake at 350 f (175 c) until it's starting to brown and render
Cut into chunky pieces

•SLICED ONIONS

•SLICED GREEN BELL PEPPERS

Grated Parm

TO BUILD AND BAKE THE PIZZAS

PREHEAT pizza stone in a 550 degree f (287 c) oven for at least 30 min

Flip each piece of rested dough, seam side down, onto a well floured work surface, press it out with your fingertips until it's about 8" in diameter, then begin to roll it out with a well-floured rolling pin. Continue to roll and rotate until you have about a 14" in diameter dough.

Gently slide dough onto a well-floured pizza peel. Next spread sauce (1/4 of the full batch or roughly 100g) to the edges then add around 1/2 cup of cheese (or whatever looks good/similar to the vid...you do you), chunks of italian sausage, peppers, onions, bacon, and top generously with grated parm.

Load each pizza onto the pre-heated pizza stone and bake for 10 minutes. I recommend baking one pizza at a time for best results.

